

The Catholic Church in the Czech Republic

Dear Readers,

For many people, the Catholic Church is an overly complex organism. We hope that this slim publication will help readers to form an image of the Church's organizational structure and the diversity of the community which in two thousand years has grown out of the cluster of Jesus's disciples. For more than eleven centuries, the Church has been a part of our society. Today, it is a great tree with deep roots, bearing highly diverse fruits in many areas.

Pictures, numbers and names, however, fail to capture its life or inner mystery. The Church calls itself the mysterious body of Christ, whose soul is the Holy Spirit. It believes that Jesus himself is mysteriously present amongst those who have an attitude of love, that he himself shapes the lives of people who, in their attitudes and deeds, accept his word and that the Kingdom of God itself grows in the world through people who put Christ in the primary position in their lives. At the same time, all its members are aware of their weakness, wretchedness and sinfulness, but their hope is in the mercy of God. Joy from God is then the main source of testimony and service to society and to individuals.

My wish for all readers is that in this publication they find the information they are looking for, and that they themselves experience something of the mystery of the Divine presence in living contact with people of faith or with entire communities in families, parishes, religious orders and movements, church schools or charities. May this experience enrich them and guide them to lasting peace and joy.

Msgr. Jan Graubner
Archbishop of Olomouc and Metropolitan of Moravia,
President of the CBC

The Pope

Francis

(Jorge Mario Bergoglio, SJ)

The Pope, Bishop of Rome and Peter's successor, is "the perpetual and visible source and foundation of the unity both of the bishops and of the whole company of the faithful," as the Catechism says. "The Roman Pontiff, by reason of his office as Vicar of Christ, and as pastor of the entire Church, has full, supreme, and universal power over the whole Church, a power which he can always exercise unhindered." At the same time, the Pope is the head of Vatican City, a city-state in the centre of Rome.

The 266th pope is Francis, born Jorge Mario Bergoglio. He was elected on 13 March 2013 as the first American to hold the papal office. Born in Argentina on 17 December 1936, he served as a professor of theology, the provincial superior of the Jesuits, the archbishop of Buenos Aires, and the president of the local bishops' conference.

The episcopal motto of Pope Francis:

„Miserando atque eligendo“
(By having mercy, by choosing him.)

The Pope Emeritus

Benedict XVI

(Joseph Ratzinger)

Benedict XVI, born Joseph Ratzinger, was born on 16 April 1927 in Marktl, Bavaria. He served as a professor of theology, a consultant at the Second Vatican Council, the archbishop of Munich and Freising, and – since 1981 – as the prefect of the Congregation for the Doctrine of the Faith.

He was elected pope in 2005 and exercised this office until February 2013, when he resigned freely. He currently lives in the Vatican and supports the Church with his prayers.

The Catholic Church in the Czech Republic

Who We Are

The Roman Catholic Church is the largest organized religious community in the Czech Republic.

According to available data, Sunday services are regularly attended by roughly 375 thousand people (data from 2020). The most Catholics live in South, Central and Southeast Moravia, and the fewest live in North and West Bohemia. The Church, through its approximately 1,800 priests (including religious priests), tens of men and women religious and its lay faithful, works with other institutions in the areas of the army, police, charity and education.

The Roman Catholic Church runs more than one hundred schools and educational institutions. Representatives of the Church participate in the management of three faculties of theology as well.

Caritas Czech Republic, established by the Czech Bishops' Conference, is the largest non-governmental provider of health and social care in the Czech Republic. It aims primarily at helping people in need in the Czech Republic; in addition, it runs projects of humanitarian aid and development cooperation abroad. It was the first to introduce the "Adopce na dálku®" program of child sponsorship. The Church also manages cultural monuments, manages its property, it runs hospitals, provides pastoral care and takes part in many other activities.

The Catholic Church consists of local churches (dioceses), which are further divided into parishes in individual municipalities and towns. Local churches form the Bohemian ecclesiastical province and the Moravian ecclesiastical province, each headed by a metropolitan archbishop. The Greek-Catholic Church is active in the Czech Republic through an apostolic exarchate. The Czech Bishops' Conference is made up of diocesan and auxiliary bishops of dioceses in both provinces together with Greek Catholic bishops. The Conference represents the entire Catholic Church in the Czech Republic.

The structure of the Catholic Church also includes societies of consecrated and apostolic life – religious orders, congregations and newer movements and communities. Other juridical persons with independent legal subjectivity are a further part of the Church's organizational structure.

The mission of the Roman Catholic Church is to worship God, to preserve and interpret the revealed truths of God, to proclaim the Gospel, to perform holy services, especially the holy liturgy, to create a visible and organized communion of the faithful of the Latin rite with Christ, based on a life in faith, hope and love, especially through piety, the apostolate and both material and spiritual benefaction.

The Czech Bishops' Conference (CBC)

A registered juridical person uniting all the bishops in the Czech Republic

KONFERENCE

The CBC was established after the creation of the Czech Republic on 30 March 1993 in accordance with the statutes approved by the Congregation for Bishops on 23 March 1993.

The CBC, established by the Apostolic See, is a group of bishops of the Czech Republic who jointly exercise certain pastoral functions for the Christian faithful of their territory in order to promote the greater good which the Church offers to humanity, especially through forms and programs of the apostolate fittingly adapted to the circumstances of time and place, according to the norm of law (can. 447 CIC).

The bishops' conference is, according to the law as defined in can. 449, § 2 CIC, a juridical person. Its seat is Prague. By the law itself it includes all diocesan bishops of both rites (Roman Catholic as well as Greek Catholic) in the territory, those equivalent to them in law, coadjutor bishops, auxiliary bishops and other titular bishops who perform for the people in the territory or outside of it special functions entrusted to them by the Apostolic See or by the bishops' conference.

The conference consists of: a permanent council, general secretariat, economical council and also various commissions established by the bishops' conference to achieve a specific purpose (can. 451 CIC).

Bishop-delegates have been named to implement certain tasks in accordance with article 26 § 3 of the Statutes of the CBC; they can also appoint their colleagues to form a council. The secretariat of the CBC has been established to take care of the daily operation of all organs. The Czech Bishops' Conference is subject to all the valid regulations of CIC, especially those of can. 447–459.

The contact point arranges for expert spiritual and social care, including therapy and psychological assistance, and it provides legal guidance. The contact point has available a network of experts, including psychological therapists, spiritual advisors and legal advisors all around the Czech Republic. This service is free of charge.

We guarantee contact point clients:

The Life of the Church

The Church Educates

The Church School System

Education of children, youth and adults is a service for future generations, and it enriches both the Church and society as a whole.

For this reason, Christians are involved in all levels of education and run kindergartens, primary schools, secondary schools, high schools, schools of music, colleges and other educational institutions. Catholic schools are open to all who wish to study at them. They help to advance the democratic principles of the education policy through equitable access to educational opportunities while respecting the freedom of choice of ways to education for Czech citizens, as guaranteed by the Charter of Fundamental Rights and Freedoms.

Church schools perform public service in the area of education. Church schools and other educational institutions are often attended by children from socially disadvantaged or large families.

The Catholic Church has established:

Catholic schools in the Czech Republic	Number of schools	Number of pupils	Number of teachers
Kindergartens	31	1,280	134
Elementary schools	26	5,444	533
Secondary schools	32	8,729	871
Conservatories	1	120	41
Vocational high schools	5	1,165	76
Total	95	16,738	1,655

The Church has further established a wide spectrum of educational institutions, including leisure time facilities, dormitories for youth, foster care facilities, pedagogical-psychological counselling centres.

These institutions have been set up by dioceses, religious orders and parishes.

The quality of church schools is proven by the number of those wishing to attend them, which greatly exceeds available capacities.

Church schools provide space in which talented students can develop, and at the same time they educate students from disadvantaged environments or with weak study skills (e.g. two-year special needs schools). Educational institutions serve as a low-threshold network and for the prevention of social-pathological phenomena (e.g. leisure time facilities).

Two examples:

1) St. John Bosco Secondary Technical School / Kroměříž

In 2018, the new St. John Bosco Secondary Technical School opened. It is run by the Olomouc Archbishopric. Applicants can study technical fields focused on forestry, agriculture and gardening. An important element of the school is its focus on comprehensive personal development, including its spiritual dimension.

2) Christian Pedagogical-Psychological Counselling Centre / Plzeň

The Pedagogical-Psychological Counselling Centre is run by the Bishopric of Plzeň and started its activities in 2018. The main goal of its services is to use its consultation or comprehensive psychological and special education examinations (diagnostics) to provide assistance to children and families encountering difficulties in education and upbringing (activity and attention disorders, specific learning disabilities, difficulties in upbringing) or encountering challenges meeting the specific needs of gifted pupils or of foreigners. The centre also provides help with professional orientation. The centre offers consultations as well as comprehensive psychological and special pedagogical examinations (diagnostics).

Department for Church Schools of the CBC

The department is a service, counselling and negotiation centre for church schools in the Czech Republic. It cooperates with all church schools and educational institutions in the Czech Republic (from kindergartens to colleges, Catholic, Protestant and Jewish).

Religious Education and Catechesis

The development of a person's spiritual side starting in childhood is an important task of the Church which is carried out on two levels.

The Church offers religious education classes at schools. Through these classes, the Church systematically presents Christian teachings and introduces children to what it means to be a Christian. Religious education helps children and youth harmoniously develop their physical, intellectual and spiritual abilities. It also instils in them a sense of responsibility, and it teaches them the correct use of freedom and responsible participation in the life of society.

The Church offers catechesis outside of schools. Catechesis allows every person of faith to continuously and systematically deepen his or her faith. This is not just about the transfer of knowledge, rather, it is more about a real meeting with the living God and union with Him. Catechism focuses on building a community with God and with other people. It strives to make a person's faith continuously alive and active, so that it reacts to the call of God in today's world.

In the Czech Republic, there are more than 1,600 catechists and teachers of religious education (data from 2019).

Department for Catechesis of the CBC

This is a body which monitors, initiates and creates the conditions for interdiocesan cooperation in the area of catechesis and religious education and its coordination. It carries out tasks from the CBC which are beyond the scope of what individual dioceses can manage on their own. It arranges for the publication and updating of standards for the on-going education and formation of catechists and religious education teachers. It works with other sections, commissions and centres of the CBC. It represents the CBC internationally in the area of catechesis. A significant project of the section is katecheze.cz, a methodological portal for catechesis and religious education.

The Church Helps

A basic part of the life of the Church is helping people in need in difficult life situations and being in solidarity with them.

That is why we establish health care facilities, offer social services, counselling and humanitarian aid and we attend to at-risk social groups in other ways as well.

Providing help to other people is primarily the specific task of Caritas Czech Republic, but it is also embraced by religious orders, the Pontifical Mission Societies in the Czech Republic and the Czech Leprosy Relief (“Likvidace lepry”).

Caritas Czech Republic

Caritas Czech Republic, a non-profit organization, is the largest non-state provider of social and health care services in our country.

Pontifical Mission Societies in the Czech Republic

The Pontifical Mission Societies (PMS) are a Church-run non-profit organization which coordinates missionary activities around the world under the direct leadership of the Pope. They operate on five continents – in more than 120 countries of the world. PMS renewed their activity in the Czech Republic in 1993, since their activities were banned during the communist regime. The goal of PMS is to proclaim faith and help people in the world's poorer regions. The societies help people in need regardless of their race, religious affiliation or nationality. In the missions, people are taught farming, and the societies lead them to cooperation while always respecting their dignity. You can find out more about the activities of PMS in eleven countries of the world through the application "Maps of Help" on the website www.cirkev.cz.

The organization also coordinates a variety of activities in parishes and spreads information via video spots and documents.

It also presents the social doctrine of the Church to the public. For more information see www.iupax.cz.

The Church Provides Services in Healthcare

The establishment, running and development of healthcare services have been integral to the Church throughout its two-thousand-year history.

Through the activities of religious orders and congregations, the Catholic Church has established three hospitals and other health-care facilities. Through Caritas Czech Republic and various civic associations, the Church also operates more than ten inpatient hospices, which combine health and social services.

Their goal is to reduce the pain of those who are suffering, to give them company in the search for meaning in their suffering, to help them accept their own aging and death, and to accompany them in the final phase of their lives.

Caritas Czech Republic

Caritas is the largest non-governmental provider of healthcare services in the Czech Republic. It primarily provides social services, healthcare and preventive care to all who need them: to people who are living in poverty or in difficult situations, to people with disabilities, to the incurably ill, the homeless, to people with drug addictions, to those who are in prisons, to victims of domestic violence and human trafficking, as well as to people affected by extraordinary events, such as flood, fire etc. Caritas Czech Republic also makes a significant contribution to humanitarian aid and development cooperation abroad.

Caritas Czech Republic provides healthcare services in the following areas:

- > Home healthcare
There are 880 nurses employed in 84 home healthcare facilities. The number of patients treated has reached 47,160.

> Healthcare in residential facilities

There are 325 nurses caring for 2,213 clients in homes for the elderly and in homes offering special services.

> Hospice care

In 2017 a new informational website was launched for anyone who needs or is looking for hospice services:

www.domacihospicovapece.cz. In 2019 a total of 6,501 users made use of hospice care.

Home hospice care is safe and free of charge for patients and it is carried out on a high professional level. There are 51 home hospice care centres and in 2019 Caritas nurses helped to provide final care to 3,268 people.

Mobile hospice care was included at the end of 2017 in the legislative framework of the reimbursement decree for 2018. Caritas Czech Republic has 16 mobile hospice care teams, staffed by 159 nurses. In 2019 they cared for 1,071 ill patients.

There are 4 inpatient hospices run by Caritas Czech Republic. They are located in Červený Kostelec, in Ostrava, in Rajhrad near Brno and in Svatý Kopeček near Olomouc. They have a total capacity of 140 beds, and in 2019 82 nurses cared for 1,284 terminally ill patients.

> In some dioceses hospice services are supplemented by out-patient pain treatment centres. In the dioceses of Brno, Hradec Králové and Olomouc physical therapy outpatient treatment centres improve the quality of rehabilitation services in hospices. In these three dioceses new outpatient palliative medicine centres have also been recently established.

> Caritas nurses also work in residential facilities – in homes for the elderly, homes offering special services and also in palliative care services.

The Church Accompanies

Today, the Catholic Church is represented in the army, the police and in prisons, where it is dedicated to spiritual accompaniment. This spiritual service was renewed in the Ministry of Defence (MD) on 3 June 1998.

Hospital Chaplains

On 11 July 2019, the Czech Ministry of Health, the Czech Bishops' Conference (CBC) and the Ecumenical Council of Churches in the Czech Republic (ECC) ceremoniously signed a three-way agreement on spiritual service in healthcare. This agreement is a historically significant step, establishing for the first time a framework, concepts and structure for providing spiritual care by the Church in healthcare facilities. The goal of this agreement was to establish the conditions for mutual cooperation between the Czech Ministry of Health and CBC and ECC church representatives in the provision of spiritual care at in-patient healthcare facilities run by health service providers and to do so in compliance with valid legal regulations.

Hospital chaplains play a vital role in the provision of spiritual care in healthcare facilities, or in social services. The term hospital chaplain is used internationally to designate a person who provides spiritual services in healthcare facilities. They can be priests or lay people, men or women. Hospital chaplains work pursuant to a commission by their particular Church and based on a contract with the hospital. They offer ill people the opportunity for personal encounters and conversation, human closeness and accompaniment in times of illness, searching for a way to cope with difficult situations with dignity, to overcome loneliness and to find motivation, understanding and hope. At a patient's request, they can arrange for a visit by a priest or other religious leader according to the patient's wishes and religious affiliation. The hospital chaplain service is ecumenical in nature. It works on the basis of the Agreement of the Czech Bishops' Conference and Ecumenical Council of Churches of the Czech Republic from 2006, including addenda from 2012 and 2019. The activities of hospital chaplains are further guided by the Methodological Instruction for spiritual care in health care facilities with in-patient care of health care providers of the Ministry of Health of the Czech Republic from 2017.

Currently, there are 104 hospital chaplains assigned by the Catholic Church to 66 healthcare facilities which are united in the Catholic Association of Hospital Chaplains in the Czech Republic. An additional 12 experts and 19 volunteers in pastoral care are also members of this association.

The second umbrella organization, the Association of Hospital Chaplains, brings together mainly chaplains assigned by churches in the Ecumenical Council of Churches in the Czech Republic. Currently, there are 37 chaplains in active service registered in this association. In all, the association has almost 70 members (including former hospital chaplains, supporters etc.).

On 15 May 2019, the 1st conference entitled "Interdisciplinary Dialogues for Chaplain Service" was held in Olomouc. This meeting brought hospital, military and prison chaplains together with healthcare workers and psychologists. The conference's theme was "The Relationship between Psychology and Spirituality." The conference took place thanks to the joint efforts of the following parties: Military Hospital Olomouc, the Olomouc Archdiocese, the Catholic Association of Hospital Chaplains in the Czech Republic, the Association of Hospital Chaplains, Spiritual Services in the Armed Forces of the Czech Republic, Prison Pastoral Care and the Secondary Business and Language School Přerov.

In early October 2019, the XVth formation and education meeting for hospital chaplains in healthcare and social services in the Czech Republic took place in Velehrad.

Military Chaplains

Military chaplains are ministers who are sent by the Christian churches associated in the Ecumenical Council of Churches and in the Czech Bishops' Conference to serve anyone in the army who asks for assistance. The universal offer made by military chaplains, directed to all those working under the Ministry of Defence and to their families, is not necessarily of a religious character: it respects individual principles and views as well as the atmosphere in a military unit operating in the Czech Republic or in an operation abroad.

A total of 27 military chaplains from the Catholic Church have participated in the Spiritual support service of the Armed Forces of the Czech Republic from its inception to the present day. Of these, 26 are members of the Roman Catholic Church (20 priests and 6 permanent deacons) and 1 is a member of the Greek Catholic Church.

At the present time, 11 military chaplains are in active service – 10 Roman Catholics (6 priests and 4 permanent deacons) and 1 Greek Catholic priest. One additional permanent deacon is a military chaplain for active reserves.

Prison Pastoral Care

Prison pastoral care is a group of prison chaplains employed by the Prison Service of the Czech Republic. Since the commencement of Prison pastoral care services, a total of 27 Catholic prison chaplains have been employed in this service – 26 Roman Catholics (20 priests and 6 permanent deacons) and 1 Greek Catholic priest.

Besides organizing spiritual service, they also take part in the creation and application of educational programs leading to a change in prisoners' values. Spiritual exercises – one-day-long retreats – have taken place in several facilities. Chaplains serve other employees of the Prison Service as well and are advisors to prison directors in matters of religious life today.

Help to Minorities and People in Difficult Situations

The Church also assists migrants and Romani people and offers spiritual help to people in difficult life situations or crises.

Pastoral Care of Vocations in the Czech Republic

This care aims at helping a person to find God's plan for his or her life and to answer God's call. A team of priests, consecrated persons and lay faithful of the Catholic Church was created in November 2006 for this task. It is their great wish that young people find the vocation to which God is calling them.

The Church and Culture

Care for cultural monuments and for creating new cultural values has always been an area where the Church has been significantly involved.

The great number of architectural monuments in our country – not only churches – bears witness to this fact. The Catholic Church cares for more than 7,500 historical buildings, particularly churches and chapels, which are a significant part of the cultural heritage of the Czech Republic. Whether they are a thousand years old or of more recent heritage, an integral part of all of them is their artistic décor, which often contains splendid, priceless pieces of art. The most precious pieces, or pieces which used to decorate churches which have been deconsecrated, are often assembled in museums and presented to the public. The history and the present of the Christian arts is a subject of study at several universities in the Czech Republic. Excellent cooperation is developing between ecclesiastical subjects and various museums and galleries, and well-developed lecture activities are of increasing importance as well.

Besides the visual arts, the Church has always focused on other forms of the arts as well: monasteries were bearers of medieval culture in the form of copied manuscripts and even later on Christians took special care of books. Many monastery or parish libraries are open to the public for research, and the Church cooperates in this area with students of archival science. In addition, new libraries of religious orders or educational institutions of theology are being established.

Liturgy is inseparably connected with music – whether it is with what is known as classical music, which was created to accompany liturgical celebrations, or with modern music, which is especially preferred by young people. Christians are also involved in the audio-visual arts, in the area of new communication forms, and thus in contemporary culture as well. Publishing activities have both a rich history and present.

The Church and Family

The Church is not created by buildings, but rather by living communities of people who share their faith and help each other. This is why special attention is paid to families, the building blocks of society.

The Church operates family centres in many locations, and it also runs diocesan and deanery or regional centres for family life while providing psychological counselling for married couples, families and individuals in difficult life situations. At the same time, the Church also attends to other spheres of life and has established a wide variety of citizens' associations for these.

National Family Centre (NFC)

The Centre monitors the phenomenon of the family in Czech society and the legal, cultural and social conditions where families fulfil their function. At the same time, it promotes a pro-family climate in society. It supports and initiates pro-family activities and projects, makes available foreign experience in the area of family policy and cooperates with the makers of family policy at all levels – regional, municipal, national and international. It communicates with legislators and asserts “Family Mainstreaming” in the legislative process.

At the same time, the NFC serves as an educational institution specializing in the development of family and parenting skills, the prevention of social exclusion and primary prevention. It plays a role in pastoral work as a coordination and information centre for diocesan and regional family centres.

The Church and Youth

Youth Department of the CBC

"Youth is more than simply a period of time; it is a state of mind. That is why an institution as ancient as the Church can experience renewal and a return to youth at different points in her age-old history." (Christus Vivit, 34)

The Youth Department accompanies young people on their way through life. It is an official tool of the bishops in the Czech Republic. Its tasks are: to coordinate, to inform, to represent, inspire and to preach the gospel. It delivers to bishops suggestions and comments not only from young people, but also from specialists, movements and individual associations and clubs.

In cooperation with the diocesan youth centres it organizes:

- > youth participation in World Youth Days
- > national youth meetings
- > conference on youth
- > national youth forum
- > study and formation courses for people who work with youth
- > it creates materials for practical use in youth associations
- > it publishes the informational-formational magazine "Budoucnost církve" ("The Future of the Church")
- > it sponsors the magazine for girls "IN! – dívčí svět" ("IN! – the World of Girls")

Diocesan Youth Centres (DYC)

Diocesan Youth Centres are homes open to youth where a priest and team of young people live. The centres are established by the diocesan bishop. They establish a team life, while they themselves live in a community and create programs for visits by groups of young people. The goal is to present a virtuous, human way of life inspired by the Gospel. The service's deeper meaning is in motivating young people to be responsible and to engage in personal service connected with society.

The Church Communicates

Proclaiming the Gospel calls for entering the world of media and new forms of digital communication.

Proclaiming the Gospel – the good news – is the primary task that Christians have received from Jesus Christ. Following the example of St. Paul, the Church makes efforts to use all means available in a particular time and environment to reach those to whom God's offer of salvation is aimed – in other words, to reach all people.

This is why Christians do not only use public media, but they also establish their own media and run Christian-oriented publishing houses.

The Internet offers an enormous range of options, and therefore Christians also make use of it to proclaim the Gospel. The Czech Bishops' Conference, individual dioceses, religious orders, parishes and other organizations have their own websites, and many of them are also active on a variety of social media and new media.

Digital cartography also offers new opportunities:

At the present time, the association has more than one hundred members all around the Czech Republic. Their photographs are published regularly in church and other periodicals, in books and on social networks. It also runs the largest Czech databank of photographs in a church environment. The Church Manages its Property

The Church is gradually preparing for life without state funding. It makes investments primarily in real estate and in socially beneficial activities.

The state is reducing funding for Churches, and the sum is lower every year. State funding will come to an end completely in 2030. For this reason, churches in the Czech Republic are responsibly preparing themselves for the period when they will have to survive on their own. They are investing their resources so that they will be able to fund their activities in the future as well as develop them in accordance with their mission. In 2018, expenses of the Catholic Church exceeded 3 billion Czech crowns. Of this amount, personnel costs equalled 963 million CZK, which is 155 million CZK more than the current state contribution for running the Czech Church, which was reduced again this year by 5% to 746 million CZK for all 8 dioceses. Income from operations from primary, i.e. spiritual, activities equalled 485 million CZK and ended with a similar loss as the previous year. Dioceses paid 47 million CZK in income tax and more than 50 million CZK in property tax. Despite its losses, the Catholic Church is trying to maintain its educational, social and cultural activities in the same scope as in previous years. The Catholic Church can afford a loss from its primary activity only if it makes money, and that is turning out to be not so easy. In 2018, it barely managed to do so, with a profit from secondary (property management) activities of 460 million CZK. The Catholic Church invested all of its profits in socially beneficial projects, primarily in repairing the cultural heritage of our country. Total expenses for socially beneficial activities, including repairs of historical monuments, exceeded 1.5 billion CZK.

The Church is the second largest owner of historically significant property and cultural monuments in the Czech Republic. At least half of Church buildings are cultural monuments, and some are even national cultural monuments, thus special rules apply to their repair. Expenses for making repairs to churches and other sacred structures is the largest budget item for all eight dioceses of the Catholic Church.

Church investments are directed into four basic areas:

- > agriculture and forestry
- > buildings
- > pure financial investments
- > investments of individual dioceses

The investments of individual dioceses in their own business projects usually have an original, regional character (for example, some dioceses own local breweries).

The Church Opens Itself

Sacred buildings and places of pilgrimage are part of the precious treasure that the Church wishes to share with all people.

Church Tourism

The Bishopric of Brno runs a web portal which presents Christian religious monuments, shrines, pilgrimage paths, places of accommodation and other interesting sites which share the Christian faith as a common denominator. In this way, the portal connects Christian heritage sites from locations around the Czech Republic with supplementary activities that help in spiritual, mental and physical renewal.

Many dioceses are now presenting this new area of activities at various leisure and tourism trade fairs. At the same time, the number of opportunities to visit churches with guided tours has been growing as part of efforts to open up churches beyond the times intended for worship.

Monastery Tourism

The goal of the Monastery Tourism project is to bring together the network of monastic communities which currently offer their services to the public. Most common is the opportunity to stay in a monastic complex with the option of participating in the community's spiritual programs or just to experience the atmosphere of quiet contemplation and a different rhythm of life. In addition to accommodation, monasteries also offer a wide range of local products ranging from organic foods and liqueurs to ceramics and homemade objects to publications of spiritual literature.

The Night of the Churches

During this event the public at large is invited to visit churches and houses of worship during the evening and night hours. The aim is to help people experience not just the cultural value of churches, but also to introduce them to a Christian environment of music, visual arts, theatre, conversation and encounters. More than 1,500 churches and houses of worship all around the Czech Republic are involved in this ecumenical event, which has been held in the Czech Republic since 2009.

Red Wednesday

Red Wednesday is an event whose primary significance is to publicly commemorate all people who are persecuted for their religious convictions.

The symbol of this initiative is a red light, symbolizing the blood of those who suffer for their faith. For that reason, people light candles on this day, and some significant structures (churches, pillars, statues etc.) are even lit up with red lights. The British branch of the Aid to the Church in Need organisation initiated the event, which in the Czech Republic is organized by the Czech Bishops' Conference together with the Czech Ecumenical Council of Churches and the Czech Federation of Jewish Communities. Similar events take place on the same day in many places around the world, including London, Bratislava, Vienna, Budapest and the Philippines.

Christian Christmas

The idea behind this project is to bring the general public closer to the spiritual message of Christian Christmas by providing an opportunity to visit nativity scenes and thematic programs offered by Christian parishes and assemblies during Advent and Christmas.

The diocese was established in the year 973 on the initiative of Prince Boleslaus II of Bohemia and with the agreement of Holy Roman Emperor Otto I and Bishop St. Wolfgang of Regensburg. Pope Clement VI elevated the diocese to the rank of archdiocese on 30 April 1344 and thus established a separate ecclesiastical province for Bohemia and Moravia.

The archdiocese develops evangelization projects aimed at people who do not have formal religious beliefs, or at those who are interested in deepening their faith. The projects range from Internet Projects from the Pastoral Centre (vira.cz – "Faith", pastorace.cz – "Pastoral Care") to events such as "Education and Values", a week when the church presents to pupils from primary, secondary and high schools the cultural and spiritual heritage administered by it. It publishes a magazine called Zpravodaj pražské arcidiecéze (Prague Archdiocese Bulletin).

The establishment of the Diocese of Brno was part of Empress Maria Theresa's ecclesiastical reforms, which in the 1770's had a radical impact on the life of the Church all over the Habsburg Monarchy. On the Empress's initiative, the Diocese of Olomouc was elevated to archdiocese pursuant to a bull from Pope Pius VI on 5 December 1777, and at the same time a new diocese with its seat in Brno was established in the southwest part of Moravia. In the diocese today, living traditions are still followed and joyous faith is still prevalent. Current pastoral priorities include care for the family and for the parish. The "Church Tourism" project, with its "Cirkevní turistika" brochure and website with the same name, attracts visitors to pilgrimage sites. The diocese also manages the website for Night of the Churches, Christian Christmas and Easter and publishes also topical magazines for catechism, for youth and for church musicians.

Greek Catholics, or more precisely Catholics of the Byzantine Rite, are part of the community of the Catholic Church, with whom they are in full spiritual communion. They acknowledge the authority of the Bishop of Rome (the Pope), however, their rituals are a bit different, as are certain disciplinary features. They celebrate worship services and conduct other liturgical acts in the Byzantine-Slavonic Rite.

The Apostolic Exarchate for Catholics of the Byzantine Rite was established in the Czech Republic by Pope Saint John Paul II on 15 March 1996. It is headed by a bishop who has all the rights of an eparchial bishop. An exarchate is the first stage of an eparchy (diocese) and is subject to the direct authority of the Apostolic See – it is managed by the Congregation for the Oriental Churches.

Personal Prelatures

Unlike dioceses, personal prelatures are not defined geographically, but rather by the type of person who belongs to the prelature. Their unifying element can be language, nationality or vocation.

They can be established by the Apostolic See after consultation with the relevant bishops' conferences to support an appropriate distribution of priests or the discharge of special pastoral or missionary tasks in different regions or in different social groups.

In the Catholic Church there is the personal prelature of the Holy Cross and Opus Dei (abbreviated as Opus Dei), which is also active in the Czech Republic. Opus Dei was established by Pope St. John Paul II as a personal prelature with international standing through the apostolic constitution Ut Sit on 28 November 1982. This specific pastoral task consists in spreading the ideal of holiness through the world, at work, under the specific conditions of each individual person of faith of the prelature.

The personal prelature is governed by the statutes issued by the Apostolic See, headed by the prelate as its own ordinary.

The statutes also determine the relationship between the personal prelature and the local ordinaries, in whose local churches the personal prelature conducts or plans on conducting his pastoral or missionary activities with the prior consent of the diocesan bishop. CIC 294–297.
